

Call for Student Nominations

Strategy, Entrepreneurship and Innovation (SEI) Doctoral Consortium

14 September 2023 – 16 September 2023

Warwick Business School, University of Warwick, U.K.

We invite nominations from faculty at business schools in Europe for their doctoral students to participate in the SEI Doctoral Consortium to be held on Thursday, September 14th – Saturday, September 16th, at Warwick Business School. The consortium seeks to bring together a select group of doctoral students doing research in the areas of Strategy, Entrepreneurship and/or Innovation. The workshop will start on Friday, September 30th at 12.30 and end on Sunday, October 2nd at 13.00. The workshop will start on Thursday, September 14th at 12.30 and end on Saturday, September 16th at 13.00.

About the SEI Doctoral Consortium: The SEI Consortium is an initiative of faculty from Europe's leading business schools, including Bocconi University, Copenhagen Business School, ETH Zurich, HEC Paris, Imperial College London, and London Business School, to help advance the research frontier and stimulate the academic labour market. To this end, it supports an annual Faculty Workshop and a Doctoral Consortium. The SEI Doctoral Consortium provides doctoral students at universities in Europe with a unique opportunity to present their dissertation-stage research to, and receive developmental feedback from leading strategy, innovation, and entrepreneurship scholars, including the editors of many of the top journals in the field. Ample informal mentoring and networking opportunities will be provided outside the formal student presentations, including coffee breaks, lunches, and dinners.

Selection process: Nominations should be made by the faculty (rather than the student) and should be coordinated at the institution level. Since the consortium is designed to help students develop their research, we prefer nominees whose research is beyond the thesis proposal stage. A selection committee will evaluate all nominees, and only a select group of Ph.D. students will be invited to attend. Priority will be given to students who have not presented at a previous SEI consortium and students whose thesis advisor commits to participate in the event. All participants are expected to be based in Europe. To nominate a student, please use the nomination page on the SEI Consortium website (<https://www.seiconsortium.com/nomination>). We strive for diversity in institutions, participants, and research topics.

To nominate, the following information is requested:

- Doctoral student name and affiliation
- Advisor's name and affiliation
- The stage that the student has reached in the doctoral program
- Confirmation that the student has not presented previously at the SEI Consortium
- Confirmation that the advisor will commit to participate in the event
- The rank of nominated student in your institution's nomination list, if more than one student is being nominated from your institution
- An up-to-date CV of the nominee
- The extended abstract of the paper that she/he intends to present (max 2000 words), the target journal, and the indication of which other conferences/workshops the paper has been presented at already (if applicable).

Schedule: The deadline for the submission of nominations is June 1st, 2023. Submissions should be made online at <https://www.seiconsortium.com/nomination>. We aim to inform accepted Ph.D. students by mid July 2023.

Transportation, lodging, and meals: The hosting institution will reimburse the cost of transportation, such as flights (economy) and arrange the accommodation (two nights stay) for all invited Ph.D. students. There is no registration fee for the workshop.
